

As we look forwards to Spring 2, we are busy getting and gathering items to continue our learning about textures and patterns in our lessons. We will be working on more science experiments, how we can change textures into something else. TAC PAC will continue as we express our preferences about different textures. Messy Maths will have lots of different textures as we explore our different textures in that. During creativity we will continue working on our texture books which we started during Spring 1.

For those doing home school learning, we will continue our daily sessions, singing, exploring different textures at home, experiencing story massage, physibods, getting involved with Tim and Carmen.

Below are some of the items we will be exploring and the symbols that go with them. We also will continue using our more and stop symbols!
