

Next half term looks like a busy one for Eagles, as we make a big push to finish off some of our Maths and English accreditations. We will also start looking at marketing in Work Skills, and some of our learners will be designing, advertising and selling their own products to their choice of target markets.

In Life Skills, we will look at choosing the appropriate clothing for a season or an event. Our trips to Spelthorne Farm will be continuing, and we will be carrying on with our Charity appeals to try and raise some money as a thank you (parents who want portraits drawn by our students are welcome to send photos in, in return for donations).

We will finally be getting around to our football matches for Duke of Edinburgh as well. Our ENO project is now finished, so we will be looking forward to starting a new activity for Trinity Art... anyone for theatre?
