

Eagles Class are very excited to be able to say that one of our students will be finishing their ASDAN accreditations this half term, and will begin Entry 1 English and Maths after the holidays. We will continue our work on marketing in Work Skills, and having successfully made, marketed, and sold lemonade and cookies this half term, we will explore Easter products next half term. In Life Skills, we will start looking at places to buy clothes, and which clothes we need to buy for different activities and weathers. Our trips to Spelthorne Farm will be continuing, and we will be carrying on with our Charity appeals to try and raise some money as a thank you (parents who want portraits drawn by our students are welcome to send photos in, in return for donations). In Duke of Edinburgh, we will choose a skill to begin work on, and myself and Amy (in Phoenix class) will be planning the expedition section soon. And, in Trinity Art, we will be rehearsing, and then performing, our traditional Easter pantomime.
